Photographers are the visual explorers

of concepts, light and relationships. As we frame the world in our viewfinders, we are creating and expressing the world we are an integral part of. As we digitally create and enhance the image, our skills and imagination are constantly challenged to create better images that are conceptually sound and technically flawless. Digital photographic hardware and software give the artist the ability to refine and explore the still and moving image to the fullest expression of the photographer's vision. But this inherent power comes with an even greater responsibility to use the digital tools appropriately in relationship to the artist's creative intent.

The Master of Professional Studies in Digital Photography is an intensive degree program that seamlessly blends the most current technical and aesthetic aspects of contemporary image-making. The program meets the needs of professional photographers, photographic educators and visual artists who want to advance their skills in digital image capture, image processing and high-quality output to remain competitive in a variety of image-making fields and professions.

The ideal MPS Digital Photography candidate has a strong photographic background, is dedicated to developing and completing a professional and unique body of work, and has a deep passion for exploring the confluence of aesthetics and technology. Our student body mirrors the diversity of the 21st century in terms of heritage, age, technical acumen, professional experience and photographic interests that include but are not limited to photojournalism, fine art, portrait, commercial, fashion, landscape and documentary photography.

The program benefits greatly from both its outstanding faculty and its location in the heart of the photo district and gallery scene in New York City. Our instructors are working professionals with extensive expertise in professional photography and digital-imaging technologies. The entire faculty and staff are dedicated to challenging students to take complete control and responsibility for every decision and detail in their images. A variety of guest lecturers from the industry complement the core faculty to enrich each student's learning experience.

—Tom P. Ashe, chair

About the Program

The course of study addresses a wide range of topics, including: capture to image processing, workflow and asset management, digital portfolio design and distribution, working with video and sound, and exhibition. The program emphasizes cutting-edge training via in-depth course work, critically focused workshops, special interest seminars, and presentations by technical experts and contemporary photographers. The primary instructional goal is to enable students to excel in their creative or commercial photographic imaging careers.

Degree candidates must successfully complete 30 credits, including all required courses, pass all noncredit classes and maintain a 3.0 grade point average. During the spring semester and summer session, each student completes a thesis project that culminates in an online project, branding materials, printed book and exhibit prints. The thesis project must be reviewed and approved by the thesis committee and the department chair for the student to be eligible for degree conferral.

CASE STUDY

Jaime Permuth & Hye-Ryoung Min

A Family Business

Catching Up with Our Alumni

“Photography has always been the glue that holds us together,” declare husband-wife photographers Jaime Permuth and Hye-Ryoung Min. The two met in the fall of 2008 as fellow students in the MPS Digital Photography program. ►

Jaime graduated from the MFA Photography, Video and Related Media program at SVA in 1994. He established himself as a fine art photographer, showing work in museums and galleries, publishing books and placing work in important collections. But by 2008, he realized that he needed to transition from the analog world to the digital one. He decided to return to SVA to attend the MPS Digital Photography program because it offered an impeccably strong foundation in all things digital. In the same year, Hye-Ryoung—who had previously taken an Adobe Lightroom workshop with Katrin Eismann, the program’s founding chair—decided that the program was exactly what she needed as well. Having finished college, she began a career as a fine art/commercial photographer. She had previously thought that she did not necessarily need to go back to school. But fueled by the desire to learn everything about digital photography from the top professionals in the industry, she found herself in the program with Jaime.

It has been more than 10 years since Jaime became a faculty member at SVA. He currently curates the i3 lecture series. “It is still a thrill because talent runs so deep in New York that after more than 150 lectures, there’s still more than enough artists I’d love to have as presenters in the series,” he confessed. The series stands for “ideas, images and inspiration,” and every two weeks it features a speaker who is an industry leader and innovator. It seeks to be very inclusive and open to the wonderful diversity of voices in this city.

Jaime’s own practice is best known for long-form, documentary-style projects, which exist in a fine art context, while Hye-Ryoung’s work explores the intersection between human relations and the inner self. Her practice is invested in process and work, and she normally tends to let images rest for a while, untouched, while Jaime, on the other hand, “edits the photos on the same night of the photo shoot.” Their different personalities and approaches help them engage in interesting feedback while editing. They are both grateful to have each other as a second set of eyes to evaluate image processing and printing.

Hye-Ryoung Min, from series
Re-membrance of the Remembrance, 2018.

“As an artist you sometimes work on a single project from start to finish. Other times, you have to juggle multiple projects at once. It is at these times that one is most likely to make a mistake or suffer an omission, so these are the times that we most rely on each other,” Jaime shares. “Lending a hand when deadlines loom large and making sure the work is as good as it can be before it’s sent out.” The creative couple have also collaborated on numerous editorial projects, with Jaime contributing the writing and Hye-Ryoung providing the photography. (And in October 2018, they collaborated on having twin boys.) Jaime’s most recent project, Olmedini El Mago, was recently shown in New York as part of the exhibition “American Truth,” at SVA Gramercy Gallery, and published The Street Becomes with Meteoro Editions (Amsterdam). Hye-Ryoung had a solo exhibition with her project Re-membrance of the Remembrance at the Center for Photography in Woodstock followed by publishing the monograph with Datz Press in 2018. Her work appeared at the Blue Star Contemporary as part of the exhibition “Novel Ideas” in spring 2020.

Course Offerings

This is a sample of our recent course listings.
For our full curriculum, please visit:
sva.edu/mpsphoto/curriculum.

ADVANCED IMAGE PROCESSING

Advanced creative and production techniques are the focus of this course. Issues addressed include managing, processing and enhancing a wide variety of still and video files; developing a professional workflow; exploring creative digital darkroom, advanced masking and retouching techniques.

DESIGN ESSENTIALS

This course concentrates on the software skills used in page layout, identity branding and web design that are essential for the successful completion of the thesis project. Working with the Adobe Creative Suite, students will be introduced to the fundamentals of logo design, page layout and web design, including working with HTML and CSS and publishing portfolios to tablets.

Kam Lin, Metal from her thesis project, "The Five Elements."

EDITORIAL PHOTOGRAPHY

This intensive seminar will simulate real-world, magazine and multimedia assignments. Students will develop story ideas and learn how to edit the work for final submission. Students will complete a body of work for either print or online publication and most importantly garner valuable inside knowledge of how prominent editors and photographers think about and execute highly sought-after magazine photographic and video assignments.

BUSINESS PRACTICES

Being a successful photographer requires more than talent and good fortune. This course will examine proper business practices in the photography industry that include budgeting; financial planning; negotiating and pricing concerns; image use and copyright registration; and developing the correct and proper paperwork needed, such as invoices and a variety of model and property releases.

COLOR MANAGEMENT AND OUTPUT

This course tackles the most prominent problem of making a print—accurately and consistently reproducing the photographer's vision. Topics addressed include: creating files that are color managed from input to output and properly sharpened for a wide selection of media substrates; working with a variety of color management systems and equipment; taking advantage of Photoshop soft proofing; and experimenting with a wide variety of papers and output options to achieve predictable and repeatable high-quality results.

DIGITAL CAPTURE AND WORKFLOW

This course is a comprehensive survey of the terms, tools and technology of digital-image capture, lighting and workflow. Students will learn how to evaluate and improve image quality; understand and apply critical technical analysis to sensor, lens and workflow components; and how to manage image files from capture and download to processing, editing and archiving.

EXHIBITION PRINTING

In this course, students will learn to select, prepare and fine-tune their images for large-scale printing. Topics addressed include tonal and color adjustments; appropriate sharpening techniques; and understanding proofs in relation to size, substrate and color. Students will work with wide-format printers to create exhibition-quality color and black-and-white prints.

I3: IDEAS, IMAGES, INSPIRATION I, II AND III

This biweekly lecture series features leading-edge fashion, editorial and fine-art photographers. Industry experts, including editors, curators, art directors and retouchers, as well as hardware and software developers, will each bring unique and current insights about the ever-changing field of digital photography and content creation.

MOTION, SOUND AND VIDEO

From concept to capture and editing, this course addresses the skills and techniques photographers need to add effective motion and sound elements to their images, along with producing professional video content. We will examine the essential attributes of successful video productions, including planning, collaboration, lighting, rigging, sound recording, color grading and editing.

Stephanie Zimmer, Yorkshire Terrier Portrait from her thesis project, "Inventing the Dog."

“The heart and soul of education begins with a clear vision. They’ve done a spectacular job building a master’s program that strikes the right balance between technical skills and creativity.”

—William S. Geffert, senior imaging manager, Metropolitan Museum of Art

THESIS DEVELOPMENT

Dedicated to developing a thesis body of work that demonstrates the highest creative, conceptual and technical standards, this course will concentrate on the written thesis proposal; media research and exploration; rigorous critique; and a survey of electronic, book and exhibit image distribution and display options.

THE BOOK AND BRAND

This course addresses the editing and sequencing of images as students experiment with the layout of their images and provide the writing that will accompany their images. Final layout, design, image selection and writings will be produced using digital book publishing services or by producing a photographic portfolio. Additionally, students will design and produce their branding, business and marketing materials.

THE ELECTRONIC PORTFOLIO

Students will explore the grouping, sequencing, distributing and presenting of their images via a website, video or tablet delivery. Since this is a digital process, students have tremendous freedom to publish their images as well as to experiment with the most effective way to present and sequence images for a wide variety of on-screen portfolio options.

Photography Graduate Programs at SVA

In addition to the MPS in Digital Photography, SVA offers two other graduate programs to serve the diverse and ever-changing world of photography and visual communication: MFA Photography, Video and Related Media and MPS Fashion Photography. For more information, please go to sva.edu/grad.

EXPLANATION OF DEGREES

MFA Degree: The Master of Fine Arts (MFA) degree is the terminal degree in the United States in the fine arts. Course work consists of both applied and theoretical work and culminates in a Thesis Defense and participation in a Thesis Exhibition. The MFA degree is completed in two to three years and is ideal for those who wish to pursue a fine art career and/or are interested in teaching in tenure-track positions.

MPS Degree: The Master of Professional Studies (MPS) degree is an accredited graduate degree designed for professionals to advance and sharpen specific skills with emphasis on real-world applications and solutions. An MPS degree is ideal for working professionals to develop marketable skills to meet evolving career demands and expand their professional opportunities.
